

Local Citation Building

What is Citation Building?

Local citations are multiple consistent mentions of your business information on website directories and other properties found on the internet. Search engines such as Google use these mentions as a trust signal, and your business's consistent NAP citations will help you rank higher within local search results.

How does citation building help with local SEO?

Citations ensure that consistent data relating to your business can be found across the internet. It's great for local rankings. Accurate business information spread across a magnitude of business directories and local business listings helps internet users find your business when completing local searches.
